

Bio of Tammy Cherie Rief:

Tammy Cherie is a dedicated advocate for child protection and anti-trafficking efforts. As a member of the House of Rief–Hogan, she is the mother of Jonah E. Rief, a child who was internationally kidnapped and trafficked through what she identifies as a government-sponsored operation. For over 16 years, Tammy has been a whistleblower and legal child advocate, tirelessly working to combat “legal kidnapping” and to prevent high-level cases of government-sponsored child abductions perpetuated through the judiciary.

She serves as the International Executive Administrator for the Save One Soul Taskforce Coalition, an organization focused on fighting child sex trafficking. In this role, she oversees the development of a nationwide network of safe housing by uniting anti-trafficking organizations and ministries to provide secure, supportive environments for victims.

Alongside her husband, Peter Hogan, Tammy co-founded Isaiah 61 Ministries and launched WhereIsJonahRief.com to raise awareness and advocate for justice in her son’s case and others like it. Together, Tammy and Peter are active members of TollandRoll.com, working in partnership with a national movement dedicated to exposing systemic corruption and restoring families and communities impacted by trafficking and judicial abuse.
